The Battle of Waterloo: a British Victory?

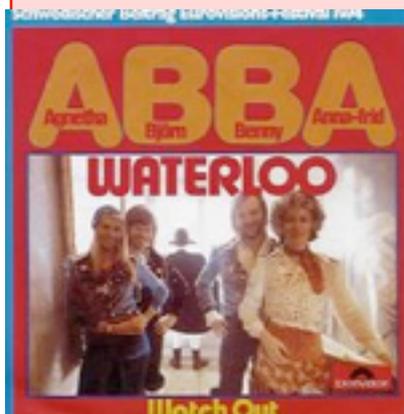

with Peter Kingdon Booker

Waterloo - a British Victory?

The bicentenary of this major battle allows us to re-examine the importance of this victory to Britain and to Europe. My, my, at Waterloo Napoleon did surrender, oh yeah! Unparalleled as singers, Abba's ideas on history are a little unconventional, not to say plain wrong. It is certain that Bonaparte lost the battle, and spent the remainder of his life well out of harm's way on St Helena. Britain's wartime economy grew enormously as a result of Wellington's victorious campaign in the peninsula and her reputation grew even further after the victory at Waterloo. But if we examine the details of the Waterloo campaign, we discover that British participation was not as great as we might think; that history has been warped by Wellington's famous Despatch; and much later, that Wellington was involved in suppressing details which show him in a less than heroic light. So who were the real victors in the Waterloo campaign? Who should bear the laurels for Bonaparte's downfall? Why has this piece of history been suppressed, and what difference does it make to our view of subsequent European history?

Peter and I will organise a number of events for the months of July and August: e.g. guided walks, visit to an olive farm, a cork factory, the salt pans, a vineyard. And two more wine tasting sessions! We also have in mind a two night visit to the Alentejo. and we should be interested to receive feedback and any other suggestions. I am also taking this early opportunity to invite AHA members to my birthday party on 19 August. Venue is our house and The New Orleans Jazz Band will be playing. (The party will also be a surprise early 60th birthday party for a friend who will then be staying with us). Lastly, I would like comment on the great success of Peter's talk in Tavira which was attended by over 90 people. We hope the air conditioning problem is sorted soon! On 30 May, Rosie and Rob, as part of a fundraising effort for the Mediterranean Garden Society, hosted 30 AHA members who were keen to learn about 'dry' gardening. A very enjoyable afternoon. Lynne

Classical Music Jubilee with 11 Stars! I am delighted that we have ten young, talented students of music to perform in our final concert of the season. The students: Ana Sofia Barradas, Arina Naumova, Polina Naumova, Salomé Lourenço, Rui Wang, Alexandre Mateus, Luana Ambrósio, André Monteiro, Diogo Ferreira, Yannis Stamoulis and Tomás Mician are all aged between 10 and 14 and they perform regularly at concerts and festivals. They have already won a number of awards at music competitions. They will be performing works by Grieg, Mussorgsky, Glinka, Piazzolla, Milhaud, Chopin, Scarlatti, Idanov, Kabilevsky, Gavrilov, Carroll, Andriessen and Rachmaninov and Schumann.

Sisters Polina and Arina Naumova have been playing together for 4 years as the Duo Polarte. In October 2014 they won the 2nd and 3rd prizes in the Maria Campina Annual Competition and in 2008 they won 3rd place in the Concours of Scriabin in Paris. The Trio Opus 3 (André Monteiro - clarinet; Diogo Ferreira - violin; and Arina Naumova - Piano) and Duo PianoDance (Luana Ambrósio and Alexandre Mateus) are students of Professora Oxana Anikeeva .

The concert will be held on Sunday 14 June at 17h00 at the Quintinha da Música, near Tavira. Tickets are €15. Interval tapas and drinks are included in the price. Any surplus from this event will be donated to the Regional Conservatory in Faro.

The New Orleans Jazz Band Live at the Casa do Povo, Moncarapacho

The New Orleans Jazz Band - on one of its rare forays to the Sotóvento - will be playing on Saturday 6 June at 7 pm at the Casa do Povo in Moncarapacho. This is a new venue for the Algarve's number one Dixieland jazz band and the management hopes that it will play there on a regular basis. The Casa do Povo already has a regular Sunday afternoon tea dance which is very popular, attracting scores of people - although very few estrangeiros. Joaquim, President of the Casa do Povo is sorry that more foreigners do not attend his tea-dances. He hopes to attract more foreigners with Dixieland and New Orleans style jazz. There is a huge dance hall with stage plus lots of outside terrace space.

The New Orleans Jazz Band was formed in 1998 by a group of international jazz musicians, all now living in the Algarve. The Band performed at the 1999 Loulé International Jazz Festival and since then it has become the busiest band in the Algarve. The current line up of the Band is Ray Charsley (trumpet/vocals), Dave Lawson (clarinet/saxophones), John Ballinger (trombone/vocals), Cory Sea (guitar), Luís Hilário (contra bass) and Tony Scriven (drums/leader/vocals). The Band plays a mixture of blues, stomps, marches, spirituals and ragtime. Great music for dancing! They will be playing 3 x 50 minute sets all for the price of €10 (non members) or €6 (for members of the Casa do Povo).

For those that need energy for dancing, Chef Mark Weiss will be preparing a 3 course Cajun meal (€18) including homemade breads, light bites, cream of avocado soup - Creole style; fresh swordfish with cajun sauce or Cajun slow roasted ribs (with bbq sauce), fresh salads with organic herbs and dressing, Cajun potatoes, rice; Mississippi mud pie, Cajun bread pudding or a sorbet.
